

World Animal Protection – Executive Director

Founded in 1981, World Animal Protection (formally known as World Society for the Protection of Animals Canada) is part of a global organization that works around the world to protect animals in certain strategic areas: in the wild, in farming, in communities, and in disasters. World Animal Protection's vision is a world where animals live free from suffering. World Animal Protection ends the needless suffering of animals by influencing decision makers to put animals on the global agenda and helps the world see how important animals are to all of us. It inspires people to change animals' lives for the better.

Together we can move the world to protect animals.

This is an excellent and unique opportunity for an exceptional and experienced Executive Director (ED), best aligned to a persuasive leader who demonstrates commitment to animal welfare on a global scale. Leading the organization towards its goal of becoming the most respected voice for animal welfare in Canada, the ED will be dedicated to raising awareness and recognition of the important work of the organization locally and nationally, through engagement with a broader audience and new supporters. This individual must have relevant experience working in an international environment and the ability to advance the strategic goals set forth by the Board with proven success in fundraising, program oversight, collaborative ventures and constituency building.

The ED will lead the development and delivery of Canadian and global strategies, be responsible for the management and delivery of programs, while building organizational profile and public presence within the charitable sector and with donors and stakeholders; growing net revenue to support World Animal Protection's domestic and international program work. The ED is an active participant of the global team and can impact systemic change in how animals are treated on a global basis.

To qualify for this high impact opportunity, you bring: 10+ years' operating at a senior strategic leadership level in a non-profit organization; strong commitment to World Animal Protection's mission to enable acting as an effective spokesperson and ambassador for the organization; proven success in fundraising and inspiring followership; experience managing in a matrixed organization with international accountabilities; superior relationship building ability adept at developing collaborative relationships at all levels internally and externally, nationally and internationally.

Applications are encouraged immediately and should be submitted online by April 24 at <https://www.odgersberndtson.com/en/careers/15485> We thank all those who express an interest, however only those chosen for further development will be contacted.

World Animal Protection is an equal opportunity employer. In accordance with the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act, 2005, upon request, accommodation will be provided by both Odgers Berndtson and World Animal Protection throughout the recruitment, selection and/or assessment process to applicants with disabilities.
